

ELIZABETH PUBLIC LIBRARY

PHOTOGRAPHIC REPRODUCTION POLICY

Warning Concerning Copyright Restrictions

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, U.S. Code) governs the making of reproductions of copyrighted material. Under certain conditions specified in the law, Libraries and archives are authorized to furnish or allow the making of a reproduction. One of these conditions is that the reproduction is not to be “used for any purposes other than private study, scholarship, or research.” If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a reproduction for purposes in excess of “fair use,” that user may be liable for copyright infringement. The Free Public Library of Elizabeth reserves the right to refuse a request for a reproduction if, in its judgment, fulfillment of the request would involve violations of the copyright law.

LIBRARY RULES ON REPRODUCTION OF PHOTOGRAPHS

The Library balances access to materials with preservation needs. The library will not permit reproduction of any photographs that are fragile or susceptible to damage by the reproduction process. Nor will the library permit reproduction of any photograph for which the library does not own copyright. Photographs may not be photocopied. Reproductions may be purchased, for personal use or publication, if the library owns copyright and the image from which the copy is made is not too fragile. However, researchers desiring to publish the reproduction must also comply with the library’s Publication Policy.

COSTS

Scanned copies of images may be obtained for $25.00 per image, plus the cost of postage and handling where applicable, with the approval of the Librarian. Scanned copies are not available on the day requested and will be sent either through the mail or e-mail to customers. Payment in advance is required.

Researchers may not make personal copies of a photograph, using handheld scanners or digital cameras.
